

Congratulations, you have officially invested in original artwork that will bring light, color and peace to your home. Thank you for choosing my art, I feel so very lucky to do the work I do and share it with others.

I want to make sure you enjoy the best experience possible with your work. To help you have exactly that, I've collected some resources for you to help you decide how and where to hang your artwork and they are linked below this video.

Please note I pack my art using recycled cardboard and other materials in a way that ensure safe shipping of your artwork. If for any reason the artwork arrives damaged, which is highly unlikely, please take a photograph and email me at artistcarriebrummer@gmail.com so we can work together to resolve this problem.

Artwork ships anytime between 1-3 business days after purchase. Please allow a few weeks for delivery. If you need expedited shipping please email me immediately so we can make different arrangements.

On a different note, I want to let you know you aren't only investing in art for your home. I collect 2% of profits from the sale of my mandala works on the website to give to Ramana's Garden, an orphanage I've visited in India. It's a way to honor the heritage and tradition of yoga that has enhanced my life. You can learn more about Ramana's Garden through my link below this video
Thank you for being part of the reason I can give back.

Thank you again for trusting me to bring light, color and peace to your home. Sending warm wishes to you and your loved ones.
